

Plaintiff's trial lawyers handling a broad range of cases

FROM ITS NEW OFFICES IN THE NORTH POINT TOWER OVERLOOKING THE Cleveland Harbor, Spangenberg Shibley & Liber LLP commands outstanding views of Lake Erie while casting an eagle eye on its clients—consumers, businesses and individuals, on whose behalf it handles a broad range of wrongful death, personal injury and health care-related legal matters.

Working on a contingency-fee basis and representing only plaintiffs, the firm handles a wide variety of cases including medical malpractice and nationwide consumer mass torts involving drugs, medical devices and toxic exposure. In addition, businesses call upon Spangenberg Shibley & Liber when their insurance company denies coverage.

HEALTH CARE FIRM

"We handle medical-legal cases across the spectrum of health care," says managing partner Peter Weinberger. These include cases that protect consumers injured as a result of medical errors or dangerous drugs, and those with health insurance policies where the insurer denies their claims or rescinds their insurance coverage when they get sick.

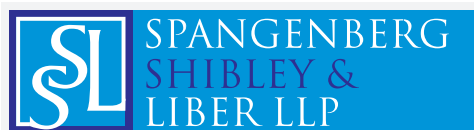

The current health care debate has highlighted the bad faith conduct that many insurance companies engage in. It has also revealed the power of big drug companies who circumvent FDA regulations. Victims of this misconduct turn to Spangenberg Shibley & Liber lawyers for help.

RETAINED BY BUSINESSES TO PURSUE INSURANCE COMPANY COVERAGE

"In addition to the hundreds of individual plaintiffs we represent, we also have a number of business and corporate clients," says Weinberger. When businesses have coverage disputes with their insurance carrier, they turn to Spangenberg Shibley & Liber.

"Over the past decade, Spangenberg Shibley & Liber lawyers have litigated numerous business coverage matters involving a wide range of insurance disputes," says Weinberger.

The firm proudly recognizes a growing number of its attorneys named to this year's Super Lawyers®, including Peter J. Brodhead, William Hawal, Dennis R. Lansdowne, John D. Liber, Stuart E. Scott and Peter H. Weinberger. Nicholas A. DiCello has been named to the Rising Stars list.
